Dear All,

3-2-10

Just another quick note to keep you informed of the situation. Unfortunately testing has not yet begun as the MPD has not yet been issued by the CAA – we hope this should be out by the end of next week. We are also still waiting for the metal covers to be sent by Evektor that cover the hole which has to be cut in the underside of the wing to allow testing – these are also expected during next week.

We have had a few enquiries recently about the cost for travelling to your airfields (or the location you have asked for the work to be carried out). When we book your wings in for repair, we will quote you a price, in advance of us coming, which will be based on the return mileage (at £1 per mile to include labour and motoring expenses) together with any other expenses such as overnight accommodation, ferry costs etc divided by the number of aircraft being tested at the same time. Anyone who brings their wings or aircraft to us at Deppers Bridge will not be charged travelling.

Once we have completed the tests on all flying school aircraft we will also arrange some airfields, local to Cosmik, where testing can be carried out without any travelling expenses being incurred (some of these sites may however have a landing fee).

All costs related to the testing of the wing (labour, equipment, replacement parts etc) will be covered by Cosmik.

Since we originally asked for the forms to be filled out detailing your aircraft location etc, we have found it necessary to have both power and light to carry out the tests. If anyone's hangar does not have these facilities can you please let us know by return so we can re-arrange to a different location for you.

As you can see from the photo (Biba with the map), our fleet is spread all over the country, so we have got a logistical nightmare on our hands to get everyone tested before the MPD deadline. We have however had a huge amount of help with regard to offers of hangars, people able to remove wings in advance of us arriving, help on the day with lifting etc and even offers of coffee and bacon rolls! Thanks to you all, hopefully we will be able to get started soon.

Regards

Mikaela
